

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SOLTIMA RECRUITS WIRELESS VETERAN DON WARKENTIN AS CHAIRMAN AND CEO

Former Aerial Communications CEO And GSM Alliance Chairman Adds Operator Experience To Wireless Infrastructure Software Supplier

Campbell, CA (June 18, 2001) Soltima, Inc., a global provider of content management solutions for wireless operators, today announced that Don Warkentin has joined the company as Chairman and CEO. Warkentin will provide Soltima with unique insight into the needs of its wireless operator customers. He has 20 years of experience in building technology-based businesses, including 11 years in key positions with wireless operators.

“I am excited to be joining Soltima,” said Warkentin. “The company has the opportunity to help solve a major problem for wireless operators. From my experience, it is clear that wireless operators need to offer a much broader range of content and services to their customers, and to make those services easier to access and use. Soltima provides a platform that is optimized for addressing this need.”

“Soltima's Wireless Publishing Platform™ allows wireless operators to cost-effectively add a vast range of content and services in a way that is much more cost-effective than other solutions. With our solution, they can integrate, provision, and manage thousands of content streams and services. In addition, they can create segment-specific packages and allow their customers to personalize their services”

-MORE-

DON WARKENTIN JOINS SOLTIMA/PAGE TWO

Warkentin was formerly the initial employee, President and CEO of Aerial Communications (formally - Nasdaq:AERL); a provider of GSM-based wireless service in markets covering 10% of the U.S. population. At Aerial he grew the company to nearly 500,000 customers and a market-value of $5 billion before the merger of Aerial and VoiceStream in May 2000.

While at Aerial, he was the founding Chairman of the North American GSM Alliance, a commercial partnership of the PCS operators in North America that utilize GSM, the world's leading wireless technology. Previously, he was an initial employee and Head of Marketing for One2One in the U.K., with responsibility for developing and launching the world's first PCS service.

About Soltima (formerly Netsanity, Inc.)

Soltima, located in Campbell, CA, is a global provider of wireless infrastructure software and services. We help leading service providers create a wireless world in which customers can choose from thousands of services, and quickly access their favorites. Soltima's solutions are essential elements in a best-of-breed service provider architecture. They run on industry-standard hardware and have open interfaces to existing presentation software solutions, billing systems, and monitoring systems.

For more information, visit www.soltima.com.

###

For More Information Contact:
Larry Reiff
Soltima Public Relations
408.583.6215
larry.reiff@soltima.com